De Vol Funeral Home Serving Glover Park Since 1946

Jeff Russell

Whether you are new to Glover Park, maybe been here for a while or perhaps a long time, one thing is for sure, you've been by DeVol Funeral Home, hiding in plain sight, unassuming, its brick facade has been on Wisconsin Avenue since 1946.

Recently I had the good fortune to have a chat with the new director, Kyle Nipper. He was kind enough to buy lunch for another neighbor and me. While we ate, he inquired how he, and DeVol's, could be even more woven into the current fabric of the neighborhood.

I was very happy to see their doors open for the most recent Art All Night as Kyle served up free popcorn! For some it might have been the first time they had been inside.

Then it hit me that it seemed like a little interview article for this Glover Park Gazette would be a nice start! With that said, below you'll find our conversation. Remember, death is just a part of living!

Jarrett: "As a longtime neighborhood business, what role do you think a funeral home can play in the community beyond helping families at the time of a death?"

Kyle: DeVol has been in our current spot since 1946, the community we've served has become familiar with gathering here over the years. Outside of planning a Celebration of Life, we are a place where the community can gather and learn. We welcome civic and non-profit organizations and have hosted "Aging with Knowledge" seminars to help pair seniors with the resources they need.

Jarrett: "What do you wish people knew about making funeral arrangements before they actually need a funeral home?"

Kyle: "It is important to start the conversation today. Most people do not want to think about their own death, let alone discuss it. But the fact is, you need to, and once you do, the peace of mind that comes from having a plan outweighs the hesitation."

"Planning ahead eases the burden, both emotionally and financially to your loved ones. When a loved one dies, the grief can be overwhelming, and having to guess what your preferences are is daunting. But if you have set everything up in advance, the guesswork is gone, the expense is guaranteed, and your family knows they did exactly what you wanted."

Jarrett Ferrier and Kyle Nipper of DeVol Funeral Home.

Jarrett: DeVol has been part of Glover Park and neighboring communities for generations. What has changed about funerals—and what surprisingly hasn't?"

Kyle: "The 'traditional funeral' has become more of a celebration of life over the years, and cremation has become much more popular. While we've added catered receptions and can create things like tribute slideshows, all of this is to help a family gather and honor their loved one's life. The need to have family and friends together; a sense of community and support has not changed. This has always been vital to the grief process because it can reduce isolation and provides a safe space to process emotions during one of life's hardest times."

How Are the Schools?

Jarrett Ferrier

When it comes time to invest in a home a handful of major questions come to mind. Among those questions/concerns, inevitably, is "How are the schools?"

Due to the quantity of kids I see in Glover Park, Stoddert Elementary must be doing lots of things right! My wife and I sent three kids to Stoddert and enjoyed just about every minute of it. The kids enjoyed it enough that my son shares a place in Boulder Colorado with one of his First grade friends. One of my daughters lives in New Orleans with her childhood friend who she met at, yep, Stoddert!

So, we have chosen Glover Park for the school and probably a number of other great reasons. Neighbors next door, who were renting, just bought and moved to a home in the Baltimore area (close to family). I have a feeling that when we see them again they'll lament leaving our little neighborhood. Truth told, many a time I've heard from others that they missed Glover Park.

All that to say, soak it up! I joke that we're in our "starter house" and we've been "starting" here for almost 30 years.... Time flies.

The Glover Park Citizens' Association is currently considering a mentor/tutor program for the school. Still very much in the beginning stages, but, if this is something that would interest you, then please reach out!

GPCA September 2026 Meeting

Miriam Van Dyck

Lt. Paul Johnson of MPD presented the Crime Report for the past 30 days. He noted that there were 22 crimes reported in the past month, all of which were property crimes. These included six motor vehicle-related crimes, five thefts from autos, and 11 thefts. A homicide also occurred in August, on August 5.

Candidate Elissa Silverman addressed the GPCA after winning the special election in June 2026. Elissa is now running in the at-large general election. She covered a range of topics, from Waymo vehicles to solar panels to affordable housing.

The Treasurer's report was presented; it was noted that as of August 31, the account balance was just over $19,000.

Glover Park Day co-chairs Alex Trager and Melissa Lane reported on this year's event, held in June. They noted that Glover Park Day made money this year, thanks to contributions from sponsors and supporters.

A proposal was made to take the profits from Glover Park Day and place them in an account as seed money for next year's event. A vote was taken, and the motion to place the profits in an interest-bearing account passed unanimously.

Beth Goldberg provided an update on Glover Park Village, noting that demand for food support is growing, and Glover Park Village is looking for volunteers to help with bookkeeping. More information is available at Glover Park Village.

Wendell Kellar reported on Georgetown Library activities, which include Wednesday storytime and Thursday baby lap times, along with pilates and yoga. More information is available on the library website or by e-mailing Wendell.kellar@dc.gov.

Jeff Russell noted that construction at the Guy Mason Recreation Center is progressing well, with vibrant and fun colors. The project should be ready by the end of September. A 9/11 memorial event will be held on the grounds, including the rededication of a memorial bench. Attendees were also reminded that tickets for the October 10 Friends of Guy Mason Fall Gala are on sale at www.friendsofguymason.org

Jarrett discussed the need to attract new members, noting that some people do not know the organization exists. A motion was made to create promotional door hangers at a cost not to exceed $300.

ANC3B Meeting Reports for September 2026

Melissa Lane

- Police Report. Lt. Johnson said that 22 crimes were reported in the last 30-day period, up from 9 the previous year. All were property crimes. Specifically, they included 5 thefts, 12 thefts from auto and 5 motor vehicle thefts. One happened at Chef Geoff's. A diner stepped away from her table and her wallet was stolen out of her purse while she was gone. When asked about the murder that happened in August at 2500 41st Street, NW, Lt. Johnson said that the incident was domestic in nature. The assailant knew the victim, did not flee the scene and was arrested the night of the crime.

- Status of Medical Marijuana Retail License Transfer Application for Kahama West LLC at 2208 Wisconsin Avenue. At the July 2026 ANC 3B meeting, the Commission voted to protest the license transfer to Kahana West at 2208 Wisconsin Avenue NW. A copy of the letter to ABCA is available on the anc3b website. Commissioner Turmail said that he was in negotiation with the applicant's lawyer about the requested transfer. When a draft voluntary agreement is developed, it will be discussed at an ANC 3B meeting where the public may also provide comments. The applicants and their attorney have asked to make a presentation at the next ANC 3B meeting on October 8.

- Resurfacing of Guy Mason Recreation Center Playground. Commissioner Lane reported that the playground at Guy Mason Recreation Center is undergoing some renovation. The sandbox and deteriorating playhouse in it have been removed and the playground is being re-surfaced. It is tentatively supposed to be completed by the end of September.

- Discussion with DC Councilmember Christina Henderson (At-Large). Councilmember Henderson has been on the Council for six years. She currently chairs the Committee on Health. They will be considering three bills when Council returns to session: vaccine administration protection and two on student health. Two pieces of legislation that will also start moving through her committee this fall relate to the rat infestation problem throughout the city. They will focus not only on trash containment but also on sterilization of the population in both residential and commercial corridors. Another topic that the Councilmember is focusing on this fall is the use of Flock cameras in DC. She has met with the interim police chief and will address how MPD participates in some of the Flock software and tools. Currently, DC's fleet of cameras includes 67 Flock cameras. The Councilmember was asked about the status of the National Guard patrolling DC. She said that one of the failures of the last Congress was not passing legislation that would give the DC Mayor control of the National Guard. She hopes a new Congress will be able to pass such a law. She was also asked about Trayon White being re-elected to the Council after expulsion. She said there is a loophole in the DC Council Act that allowed him to run again but that there is legislation being considered that would close that loophole.

- Update from DC Water on the Glover Archbold Project. Peter Kelley from DC Water gave an overview of the creekbed rehabilitation project, explaining that the sewer and storm pipes are roughly 85 years old. The goal of the project is to get inside the creekbed areas to rehabilitate and protect them and hopefully extend their new design life by another 50 years. The project also includes rehabilitating some of the defective manholes, increasing pipe-life from internal corrosion by relining or replacing pipes, and stabilizing and protecting stream areas. The overall project consists of three components: Glover Archbold Park, Dumbarton Oaks and Normanstone Parks. Glover Archbold, the largest, is approximately 229 acres of park land with 200 manhole assets and approximately 440,000 feet of storm and sanitary pipes. Within this area, they have identified 19 stream stabilization sites and 7 outfall stabilization sites. Surveys of the area are currently underway and expected to be complete by Spring 2027. Some of these inspections and surveys will be conducted by autonomous vehicles. Construction is tentatively scheduled to start in 2028 and take about 3-4 years for the total project or about a year and a half per component. Jack Everett asked about the “rank” runoff from the storm drain at near New Mexico Avenue. He would like to know what is coming out of it. Mr. Kelley said he could make a request to Department of Energy and Environment, (DOEE) to do a water test. Mr. Everett will send a request to ANC 3B to contact DOEE and have a test done on the runoff from that area.

- Update on the Restoration of the Stoddert Field Following Completion of Construction Projects at Stoddert Elementary School.

Christopher Dyer from Department of Parks and Recreation introduced Tom Henderson from Department of General Services and John Montemayor from Chiaramonte construction. They have overseen the construction at Stoddert Elementary of both the new east wing and the cafeteria in the west wing. This construction required the athletic field to be used first as a stage area for phase 1 and then as a parking area for phase 2. The construction for both phases is now complete, and the field is currently being repaired and restored to its original condition. Mr. Montemayor reported that the landscaping team has now resodding the field and is working on completing restoration of both the field and the student garden soon. They have also repaired the batting cage that was damaged during construction. Sidewalk repairs on the 39th Street side area are also scheduled.

Next Meeting: Thursday, October 8, 2026

Glover Barkers—Mr. October, Reggie

Manus Patten

This is Reggie, our 5-year-old English Golden Retriever. Reggie lives on 39th Street with two human sisters and two human parents, who love him very much, and two cats, for whom he has an unrequited love. Dogs of this breed are known for being athletic, smart, and loving companions. Reggie ticks two out of those three boxes. We have yet to see him jump, and the neighborhood rabbits have learned that Reggie isn't serious about giving chase. But what he lacks in athleticism he makes up for with personality. He is a big fan of people, even strangers. One of his favorite moves is to stand sideways across the sidewalk, so that passersby can't avoid stopping to greet him. And if you've ever given Reggie a treat, he remembers. Every time we pass the corner of 39th and Calvert, Reggie still looks for Miss Deb.

Some fun facts and figures about Reggie:

- He sheds his entire weight in fur every three days (or so it seems).
- As a puppy, before he knew better, he ate ~80% of the population of Brood X cicadas.
- He is undefeated against the US Postal Service. He barks, they never come in.
- Our previous cat would sit at the bottom of the stairs and scratch and hiss at him if he tried to get past. She died three years ago, but, out of respect or fear, Reggie has still never been upstairs.

Fall Leaves Fall by Emily Brontë

Fall, leaves, fall; die, flowers, away;
Lengthen night and shorten day;
Every leaf speaks bliss to me
Fluttering from the autumn tree.

I shall smile when wreaths of snow
Blossom where the rose should grow;
I shall sing when night's decay
Ushers in a drearier day.

Benjamin H. Gruver, who had earlier built houses in Petworth, Brightwood and Cleveland Park, would later say that his firm rode out the Great Depression by concentrating on the development of Glover Park. His architect's row house design contained elements of Tudor Revival (such as tapestry brick and half-timbered facades) intended to evoke an English village. In October 1926, Gruver listed the features of his exhibit house at (what is now) 2430 Tunlaw Road:

- Living room—Fireplace with radiant fire heater; twin polychrome wall brackets, paneled walls.”
- Dining Room—Large and well lighted; opens onto screened breakfast porch; walls are paneled; polychrome lighting fixtures.”
- Bedrooms—Oak floors throughout, large closets; double screened sleeping porches.”

- Kitchen—Everlasting cork tile floor, laid in attractive two-tone design; one-piece sink; white enameled range; large refrigerator with outside ice door; white enamel kitchen cabinet; Sanitas wall covering; sanitary trim; separate screened porch.”

- Bathroom—Built-in Pembroke tub with shower; pedestal lavatory; built-in bath fixtures; linen closet.”

- Basement—Pittsburgh Instantaneous Water Heater, toilet.”

- General—Hot water heat with square top Corto radiation, macadam street and paved alley, detached garage in rear of lot, front porches architecturally blending with house proper; front lawn landscaped with beautiful shrubbery.”

Supporting Domestic Workers

Erica Sklar

In Washington, DC, the vast majority of nannies, house cleaners, and home care workers are immigrants. In the past two years, these domestic workers have faced massive threats to their safety as a result of federal overreach. If you are an employer of a domestic worker, you have opportunities to support people who work in your home in unique ways. While you should never pressure an employee to share their documentation status, there are many ways to build trust and offer concrete support at home without asking an employee to compromise their privacy.

For many people in DC, daily life doesn't include interactions with federal law enforcement agents; however, most of us do know that they are in the city and targeting particular populations. Domestic workers are at risk, and have been kidnapped and detained by ICE and other federal authorities. Across the country, this is happening as workers commute, travel domestically with their employers, or simply take the children they care for to parks.

We must all be prepared for emergencies that may happen in or around our homes. In the same way that we can be prepared for fires or floods, we can be prepared if ICE knocks on our doors or detains our employees.

Here are a few ways that you can help protect immigrant domestic workers:

- Provide a flexible schedule. Tell your employee that if it's easier for them to work different hours, that's okay with you. Your employee will know the safest times to be out—trust them.
- If you typically have an employee who takes someone to a park, library, playground, or other public place, tell them it's okay if they stay home. Many domestic workers are afraid to be out in public right now.
- There are many reasons why it is important to have an emergency contact for your employee. If you don't already have one, ask who you can reach out to in an emergency.

- Hang these posters to show your support for domestic workers and let them know where you stand on the issue.
- Do you have access to a printer? Tell your employee you'd be happy to print something for them or make copies.
- Are you already comfortable with having political conversations with your employee? If so, you might consider working together to fill out an emergency plan—you can even be part of that emergency plan.
- You can find more ideas, conversation starters, and best practices here.

If you belong to an organization that would like to host a full 60 or 90 minute training about how to make your home a Sanctuary Home, we would be thrilled to partner with you. And if you have questions or want to talk with an organizer who can help you complete a contract or have a difficult conversation, please reach out to Erica Sklar: erica@domesticemployers.org

Reading Group (virtual) Wednesday, October 21, 11a.m.—12 p.m.

In the spirit of the Halloween season we will be reading Mexican Gothic by Silvia Moreno-Garcia. The protagonist, Noemi Taboada, is a Mexican debutante, an unlikely sleuth, but fearless. After receiving a frantic letter from her newlywed cousin she travels to High Place, a distant house in the Mexican countryside where her cousin now lives, unsure of what she will find and whether she will be able to rescue her cousin. To join the group and receive the link for the virtual meeting, contact Wendell Kellar at Wendell.kellar@dc.gov. Copies of the book are available at the Georgetown Branch of the DC Public Library. Ask the librarian for the book for the Guy Mason Reading Group.

Lunch and a Movie (at Guy Mason) Friday, October 30, 12:30 p.m.—4:00 p.m.

To continue the seasonal theme we will be screening Young Frankenstein, directed by Mel Brooks, and starring Gene Wilder, Madeline Kahn and Marty Feldman. Wilder portrays the American grandson of the infamous scientist who is struggling to prove that his grandfather was not as insane as people believed. He is invited to Transylvania where he discovers the process that reanimates a dead body. Lunch begins at 12:30 and the movie at 1:30. If you would like to join us, please RSVP by Tuesday October 27 to Marsha Goldberg at mslonegoldberg@gmail.com or call 202-248-4254.

Glover Park Dining Guide!

Glover Park Eateries

Two new restaurants are opening soon! Kiin Laow Asian Bar & Restaurant will occupy the former Town Hall/Social Beast site and Shah's Halal Food will take over the former Sprig and Sprout spot. Forget the traffic, parking hassles or extra cost of a car service and enjoy a walk over to pick up or to dine-in at one of our many local establishments.

Check out individual websites listed below or call for more information about offerings, including happy hours, music, trivia, sporting event coverage or try out a new drink.

Don't forget that local businesses offer great ideas for gifts. How about flowers, wine, gourmet candy, gift cards, salon visit or even a hand-woven rug?

You can find a lot of great options for gifts close to home! A list of Glover Park businesses is available here.
